Dear Chris

Having looked at your reports

I can see how well you are hiding the information in diagrams that mean nothing to the layman you quote figures but that mean nothing with no proper details.

We need to know just how you will be improving the flow of traffic.
What extra schools, doctors surgeries and hospitals are going to be built to cope with all the extra people living in the area

How much money is going to be spent on flood defences as all these buildings are going to have an impact on the environment

You quote how many people have a qualification but how many have jobs I bet most do not have on as there are very few jobs in the area..

You say that less people are using Woking train station may be because of all of the strike bad service high costs they are going back to driving to work.

Your reports are as clear as mud as you use lots of code letters for the areas and what is going on there.

Regards
Andrea
